

ANDREW'S CORNER

Our benevolent state Labor government, in its infantile wisdom continues to wave around its “get tough stick”.

Now it is boldly declaring that they will remove children from their unsuitable parents. They believe that if you should have a licence to qualify to drive a car, then you should really also be licensed to have a family.

Premier IEMMA, say's irresponsible parents WILL have their children removed and taken into the care of Docs.

What then do we do with an irresponsible state government and premier? Whose actions have sent our state into poverty, disarray and despair? Can we have DOCS take them off us also?

Instead of removing children from parents, how about we restructure society to protect and assist the family and arrest the family unit's destruction. Oh no, not Labor policy.

Let me tell you about Jasmine. A teenage girl removed from her "unsuitable" parents by DOCS. DOCS, like her "irresponsible" parents were unable to stop her from walking out. (By the way, UN Law enacted by Federal and state government removes the parent's authority to stop their child). She ended up on the street and murdered by an off duty Bus Driver who had her in his car. He was only convicted of man slaughter after mounting his defence that he was forced to strangle her with an electrical lead because she had a knife held to his throat. "Beyond belief!"

If Jasmine's case were an isolated one, then some may assume that no one is infallible. However it is far from the fact. The tragedy is that Jasmine was typical of DOC's ability to take adequate care for those that they are charged to protect. Yes, DOC's are no better than the seemingly irresponsible parents, of whom they are meant to replace.

So can we expect this tough new law to be uniform and across the board. No, not on your life. For they will not touch those children of extremist Islamic parents. If they murder, commit arson and assault because of a cartoon, how then will they react if their children are removed? Likewise negligent Aboriginal parents shall also be exempt, because it wouldn't matter how irresponsible they might be; we just can not have another stolen generation.

So there you have it. Aren't you proud that we have such a responsible state Government? And if you think the Liberal will do any better, think again. No, Docs is in desperate need of a substantial overhaul and should remain focused on protecting the children whose lives are in immediate danger, of which they have failed time and time again.
